

ADVANCED INFANTRY MARINE COURSE

Purpose: To provide a Marine with the knowledge and skills required of a 0311 infantry squad leader. A Marine receives training in train the trainer, troop leading, communications, combat hunter, weapons and munitions, patrolling, offensive and defensive tactics, and urban operations. The desired end-state is a Marine capable of performing as a squad leader within a rifle platoon. This course serves to lay the foundation for future attendance at the Infantry Small Unit Leader Course.

Task List (2000 Level):

- Annex A (troop leading, combat orders, fire support planning, patrolling, and call for fire)
- Offense, defense, and urban operations
- Machinegun employment
- Mortar employment
- Anti-armor weapons and employment

Methodology: The course focuses on teaching the skills and doctrinal knowledge required to serve as a squad leader with an emphasis on decisionmaking. Instruction is executed through lecture, practical application, field training, and live fire exercises. Each student is tested during a field leadership evaluation based on a tactical scenario.

Course Length: 8 Weeks / 37 Training Days
